

State Government Information at a Library Near You

The State Publications Center (SPC) safeguards one of our state's most critical traditions – the public's right to know.

Since its establishment by the Legislature in 1967, the SPC has maintained a comprehensive collection of materials published by Montana state government agencies. Territorial publications and unpublished archival records are available at the Montana State Historical Society. You can visit them on the web at <http://www.his.state.mt.us/departments/Library-Archives/index.html>

The SPC designates libraries across Montana from Libby to Glendive as depositories to provide local, no-fee access to state government information. With expert assistance at your depository, you will find:

- Environmental assessments
- Transportation design manuals
- Census and vital statistics
- Mineral resource information
- Labor and industry reports
- Education related materials

...and much more.

Keeping Montana Informed

State Publications Center

A Program of the Library and Information Services Division

Public access to information produced by state agencies is distributed to the 13 depository libraries throughout Montana. Each collection is tailored to the specific information needs of the library's community.
